

ABSTRACT

A biodegradable plant protein composite is described. The composite includes a plant protein, which is preferably soy protein, and a polylactide. The composite also preferably includes a compatibilizer, a cross-linking agent, 5 and a plasticizer. The composites of this invention offer the advantages of being water resistant and biodegradable.